SOMEWHAT OF A SURPRISE

In Yesterday's Contest the Detroits Become Demoralized and Are Beaten.

A Game by Natural Gas Light Next Week-Shomberg and Esterbrook Released-No Other League Games Testerday-Notes.

For a long time yesterday it was a questico whether the Detroits had not disposed of their bad luck when it ran up against Indianapolis. For seven innings they kept the Hoosier club from making a run and in the meantime had made two themselves, one of which was a very forcible home run. They were fielding quite and their pitcher, although not one of the old reliables, was doing about as well as could be asked. But in the sighth inning there came a change, and the Indianapolis players helped it by batting two earned runs off the pitcher. The smiling confidence of the players from Detroit suddenly changed to complete demoralization. They played the first seven innings as if they might be the champions of old, but they completed the last two innings in very bad shape.

Glasscock was the first batter in the eighth Inning. He made some threatening remarks to Gruber, when the latter threw a ball uncomfortably close to him, and then when Gruber put one in the right place he batted it to left-field for two bases. The spectators had pretty hearly given up the game, and Glasscock's hit was not applauded with much gusto. When Seery, however got a base on balls, the interest quickened. McGeachy, the next batter, bit the ball hard, but Sutcliffe got it and threw the runner out at first by a wlose margin. There were two outs, and runners were on second and third, so that everything depended on Denny. He proved equal to the emergency, and guided a safe hit to right field. Ganzell was so anxious to get the ball that he turned and followed it out into the field, where Campau picked it up and made a vain effort to cut off the fleet Seery at the plate as he was making the tying run. The throw-in coabled Denny to get to second. The faces of the Detroit players at this time were the picture of despair. Just as they had begun to believe that they had broken their long record of deleats, the game was sliping away from them. They might have saved it, however, had not they lost their nerve. Anyone who saw them play the concluding innings of yesterdey's game realize how groundless the charge is that the Detroits are playing indifferently. It was their very anxiety, which caused them to make the frequent errors yesterday. They would pounce upon a ball and make wild efforts to bick it up, while their excited faces bore ample testimony to their earnestness. While Denny was at second he made a "bluff" of going to third and Bennett instantly threw to that base, although the runner had started back to second. The throw went high and Denny reached third. Then Twitchell added to the demoralization by muffing a fly and Denny scored the run, which put the home club in the lead. The Detroits started out in the last half of the inning encouragingly, Sutcliffe making a hit, but he was immediately doubled up by White's grounder to Denny. Schoenecke made a very good play in catching Bassett's throw, as, with the same motion that he received the ball, he threw it back toward the pitcher. Hanlon made a vigorous protest against the play, claiming that the first baseman did not catch the ball. Daniels was right, however, as Schoenecke could hardly have handled the ball the way he did without having caught it. Ganzell made the third out, and Hanlon stood like a statue on the coaching line, irresolute, apparently, whether to go out into the field again or take a sarriage for the hotel. The ninth inning showed what a thoroughly demoralized club can do when pressed to an extremity. The home players were permitted to make five runs, after two out, and not one of them was earned. Buckley made twothirds of the outs, but he hit the ball harder than any one. The first time he sent a liner to left, which Twitchell caught in fine style, and the next time be ended the inning by a liner to Ganzell. Shreve, Seery and Denny, of the ten men who went to bat, made the only base hits, and they were well scattered. Of errors, Sutcliffe made one, Bennett one, Twitchell one, Brouthers one and Gruber one. All were doubtless due to nervousness, save those of Brouthers and Twitchell. The latter made a bad throw home, and Brouthers muffed a ball which Gruber threw to him like a cannon-shot when but a few yards away from him. Although many of the spectators sympathized with the Detroits, remembering their recent misfortunes, they had a gay time of it while the inning was going on and at times it was mirth-provoking. On one occasion Shreve was on third, and Bennett threw to catch him napping. Had he thrown accurately he would have caught his man, but the ball went low. White blocked the ball, and it lay motionless before him. But he thought it had bounded into the air, and while he was turning around, trying to catch a glimpse of it, Shreve scored. Schoenecke, at another time, hit a little ball in front of the plate, and started to first at a rate which was likely to get him there some time within the next half hour. Gruber picked up the ball, took deliberate aim, and his the ground about ten feet in front of Brouthers. At last, however, the third man was out, and the Detroits came in to take their last turn at the They added one run by means of hits by Twitchell and Campau, Bennett's base on balls and Gruber's fly to The Detroit's run in the first in was due to a base on balls, a batter bit by a pitched ball and Ganzell's single. In the second inning Twitchell batted the ball over the left

ST. LOUIS, 7; BROOKLYN, 0.

Sr. Louis, Aug. 21.-Five thousand persons saw the second game of the Brooklyn St. Louis series to-day. As on yesterday, the St. Louis retired their visitors without a single run. Foutz, the old St. Louis pitcher, was in the box for Brooklyn and was hit very hard. Hudson, on the other hand, was almost invincible. Robinson and Latham carried off the batting honors, while Burdock and Robinson did the prettiest fielding. Score: ST. LOUIS. R 1BPO A

Shomberg and Esterbrook Released. Yesterday morning Otto Shomberg was given his release by the Indianapolis management, he having repeatedly declared that he would not allow his services to be sold to any other club. In the afternoon Esterbrook, who had followed the team home from Washington, also succeeded in getting a release, and thus in one day the two players whose respective merits have caused such diversity of opinion among local patrone ceased to be members of the team. Esterbrook's action in the matter was peculiarly characteristic of the man. When the club was about to leave Washington and return home, he reported to Manager Spence, stating that he was ready to go to work. Mr. Spence told him he was not wanted at present, and Esterbrook then him to understand that he would demand full salary for every day that he was under engagement with the Indianapolis club. Seeing that the club was not going to pay his way home, he went to a friend in Washington, got the money and followed the team here. After arriving he demanded his release from the club and obtained it. He states that he has a number of offers elsewhere in he decides to play again season. Neither he nor Shomberg depends on the game for a living. Although Shomberg had a number of flattering offers to play ball elsewhere, his friends here will be glad to learn that he is to remain a resident of Infrom the ball field. Yesterday, after his release, he purchased the livery stable of John

· Playing by Gaslight. The first attempt ever made at playing baseball by natural-gas light occurred last night at the ball park in this city. It was merely a pre liminary test, no regular game being attempted, and the illumination not being nearly so extensive as is contemplated when a regular game is to be played. Only two lights were used. They were erected in the northeast corner of the ground, about sixty feet apart, and they threw a bright light all over the ground. Nearly all of the members of the Indiapapolis team got out and practiced. Balls were batted in the air, to the outfield, and along the ground, and the players seemed to get them as easily as in the daytime. The ball could be seen clearly when high in the air. A new ball was tried at first, and afterward an old one was thrown in, but it seeme' to make no difference. Manager Spence, who had all along been skeptical concerning the success of the project, said, after watching the playing last night, that he believed it would be a go. Denny McGeachy and others thought the same thing. Quite a crowd was out to watch the exhibit, among them nearly all the directors of the club. President Brush was much pleased with the result, and no sooner did be see the effect of the display than he ordered sixteen lights to be put in by the natural gas companies at once. The difference between sixteen lights and two will be very marked, and judging from last night's display it will be an easy thing to play a regular game with that much illumination. The club goes to Pittaburg to-night, and no night game can be played until it returns, but the attempt will be made that club the latter part of next week. The game will probably be played on Saturday night, Sept. 1. Base-Ball Notes. Only about 600 people saw the game. Schoenecke is a good fielder, evidently, but he does not go at things in the proper manner with the Chicagos during the series here with when he faces the pitcher. Bassett made a nice play in the third. Sutcliffe and White were on second and first, with one out, when Ganzell lifted a fly to Bassett, who, instead of catching it, made a pick-up and effected a double play.

The grounds were slippery. In the fifth Shreve stooped to pick up Sutcliffe's slow grounder, slipped and fell. He grabbed the ball, raised upon his knee, and threw the runner out. The play was warmly applauded. Umpire Daniels is an old ball-player, and began his playing in this city as a member of the old Westerns. That was twenty years ago. He is a good umpire, and takes care always to wear a neat uniform upon the field. To-day's game will be called at 3 o'clock, inasmuch as the local club plays in Pittsburg tomorrow. It will not return to the city until Thursday of next week. Getzein and Burdick will probably be the pitchers this afternoon. McGeachy made the star play of yesterday's game. In the seventh Sutcliffe was on first when Ganzell sent a sharp grounder safely into right field. McGeachy ran forward, picked up the ball, and, by a swft throw, retired Sutcliffe at second.

Trotting at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.-The opening day of the Northwestern Breeders' Association's trotting meeting was a cold one for the management, and a very chilly one for those who attended. There was a running meeting in another part of town, and these combinations kept the attendance down to about a thousand. AFFAIRS OF THE RAILWAYS.

The Bee-Line People Striking Westward. One of the Kansas City papers states that a mortgage given by the Cleveland, St. Louis & Kansas City Railway Company to the Holland Trust Company, of New York, was filed in the recorder's office at that point on Monday. The mortgage runs for forty years and bears 5 per cent. interest. It is given to secure four thousand gold bonds of the face value of $1,000 each. The bonds are intended to pay the expense of building a bridge over the Mississippi river at Alton and a bridge over the Missouri river at or near Arrow Rock: also to pay for the approaches to those bridges and all the tracks, grounds and terminals in Kansas City, St. Louis and Alton, Ill., and other places. The Cleveland, St. Louis & Kansas City is backed by the Bee-line interests, and will undoubtedly be built to this city in the near future. The Bee-line has been waiting to get to Kansas City for several years and finally succeeded in securing control of the old Missouri Central, a line projected by J. A. K. Hayward, a wealthy citizen of St. Louis, and chartered to build to this point.

Under the new rules, freight trains on the Wabash to make lost time can run fifteen miles an hour over iron rails and twenty-five miles per hour over steel rails, but this speed must not be exceeded. Passenger trains when late can be run as fast as consistent with perfect safety. The earnings of the Ohio, Indiana & Western road in the first half of August show a very

One of the Pennsylvania officials says the next move the Pennsylvania Company will make will be to build the needed link between Indianapolis and Anoka, to give them their own line between Louisville and Chicago via Indianapolis. Then the Pennsylvania Company will be master of the situation, so far as through lines are concerned, between several important Western railroad centers.

In view of the proposed extension of the Canadian Pacific railway to Detroit, it is announced that the Grand Trunk railway has made arrangements to extend its Michigan Air-line, in order to form a short line between Detroit and Chicago, independent of the Wabash, and is also making arrangements to at once make connection between its system of lines and the St. Louis & Kansas City road, reaching St. Louis and the Southwest by a route equal to that of

The opinion prevails in railroad circles that there will be no stability in rates in the West and Northwest until the far Western country has been developed, and the present demand for anti-railway legislation beyond the Mississippi has been modified. The railroads have largely drawn the present troubles on themselves, and, as well, the recent hostile action of the Railroad Commissioners, building up a sentiment with the public that if the managers can voluntarily throw away their profits the people ought to be allowed to hold the profits down to what they consider a reasonable basis.

The Pennsylvania, in connection with the Vandalia, propose to put on a line of chair cars between St. Louis and Cincinnati, hauling them on their fast trains daily each way. It will leave here for Cincinnati at 2:55 P. M., making as good time into ten minutes, it is stated, as is made by the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Indianapolis. The distance is eleven miles greater, but the high speed of the train overcomes the distance so far as time is concerned, this train making no stops between Indianapolis and Richmond; and but two stops are made between Richmond and Cincinnati by the train on which it is proposed to haul the parlor cars.

POOR PEOPLE'S TROUBLES.

Lecture of Prof. Gay Waters on the Evils and Reverses That Try Men's Souls.

Prof. Gay Waters lectured at Fourth Christian Church, on North West street, last night, his subject being "Poor People and Their Troubles." He said that there were no words in all literature like the words "Come unto me, ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Nothing in philosophy, in poetry, anywhere, that had such significance to man as these immortal words, whether uttered by a man, a priest or a prophet. They have a special meaning, he continued, when we think of the cold cynicism and selfishness of the masses, who are utterly indifferent to the wants and needs of the individual. When we think of this coldness, the iciness of men to each other, this memorable text rises into still greater beauty and meaning. There is, he said, underlying all political problems, all questions of reform and progress, a moral question which, if settled itself, would dispose of many of the great evils of societythe right relation of one individual to another. The non-existence of this right relation causes a great deal of all the trouble in the world. The speaker then divided the troubles that affect mankind into two kinds; first, those that cannot be, and those that can be, avoided. Taking up the first kind he discussed them at length, pointout that our ignorance leads us into many unavoidable troubles. But out of all these afflictions the soul rises many times purified and ennobled. Great men and great women learn more from their troubles and reverses than they do from their successes. Some troubles he said are of the nature that we might denominate providential. He gave a number of examples from the Bible of this class, saying that in many cases they were simply persons overcome by temptation, persons whose sins were the result more of weak ness than of any desire to do wrong. As one of this class he instanced the woman who was brought by the Jews into the presence of Christ The Jews said that they had caught her in the act of a sin for which, ac-

stone," put her accusers all to shame, and they

The speaker then took up the troubles that he thought could be avoided and discussed them at length. He thought there was not enough sympathy in the world between man and man, and that the lack of this element caused much of the sorrow and pain that fell to the lot of humanity. Mutual helpfulness is the great thing that is lacking and of which he felt the need in the world more and more each day he lived. After all the troubles of the world have a disciplinary value. Out of all the sorrows that come upon soul something higher and bet-results. It is God's way of disciplining and purifying the heart. If trouble is a necessary part of life, then every one needs a friend in that hour when these troubles come upon him. No man or woman can serve as that friend. They haven't the capacity to lift the burdens from sorrowing souls. They may sympathize with them, but cannot afford them any adequate relief. Only Christ can meet the requirements. He relieves suffering and brings comfort to the bleeding soul Professor Waters will lecture again this evening.

CULLINGS FROM THE COURTS.

Lawyer Adkinson's Wife Asks for a Divorce and Alimony.

Florence M. Adkinson yesterday filed suit in the Marion county Superior Court against William P. Adkinson, Warren Wright, Israel Klingensmith and the L. N. A. & C. railroad. On June 4, 1873, she was married to Wm. Adkinson, and complains of his failure to provide for the wants of herself and her two-year-old child. It is claimed that her husband, as an attorney, was employed by Wright to take action against the L. N. A. & C. railroad for $10,000 damages, which were secured. Adkinson then put in his intention to hold a lien for $2,000 as his fees, which sum is still due. His wife now asks a divorce and $500 per anoum for her support.

Suit to Recover Money. Margaret A. Binson yesterday filed a suit in the Superior Court against Samuel M. Bruce, of this city, and John C. Carriger, his law partper. The complainant, it is claimed, some time ago put into Bruce's hands the collection of $4,000, of which he was to receive $100 as his fee. It was her intention to use the remaining sum for her own support, and after its collection instructed Bruce to loan it at as high a rate of interest as possible. This was done, so Bruce informed her, but never, she said, were securities shown orreceipts given. Repeatedly, it is alleged, the plaintill asked the defendant to produce his papers showing that the money was safely invested, but by trifling excuses she was put off. She further charges that through Bruce's instrumentality the money was transferred to Carriger's possession on the pretense of investment. The plaintiff asks for damages amounting to $5,000.

His intention was to purchase intoxicating liquors. The case was of a character that has been rarely brought before the court.

Protective Legion.

A meeting of representatives from the eighteen branches of the now defunct Order of Honor was held at English's Hotel, yesterday, to discuss the most feasible plan for future operation. A new organization was formed, to be known as the Protective Legion, which will be conducted in a similar method as was the original order. cording to the laws of Moses, she should be The following officers were elected: Supreme stoned to death. Until that sum is reached the proceeds of but one assessment will be paid to beneficiaries of each deceased member. Charters have been granted to three of the old lodges.

Result of Reading Dime Novels. Coroner Wagner yesterday began the investigation of the Petero murder case. The facts so far obtained are in accordance with Hoffman's statement on the night of the murder. When telling his story, yesterday, Hoffman broke down and sobbed. As he concluded his statement to the coroner, he said that the murdered man had been one of his warm friends. He persisted in saying that the shooting was wholly accidental. The coroner is under the impression that Hoffman has been a constant reader of trashy literature, and that his guilt is the result of a distorted conception of a cowboy life.

Steeg Recommissioned.

Governor Gray yesterday recommissioned John L. F. Steeg as notary public, his term having expired. Mr. Steeg is of the old firm of Steeg & Bernhamer, and acquired considerable notoriety during the last city election for his alleged implication with the case of Mayor Denny and one Green. The latter swore falsely at the time that he had been instrumental in taking Mayor Denny to his home while in a state of intoxication, and it will be remembered that Mr. Steeg administered the oath.

Mr. Frank Baldus Makes a Statement Which

Contains Facts of Local Interest. "You are?" "Frank Baldus."

"Just the man I want to see!" exclaimed the writer, who had some little trouble in gaining an interview with the before-mentioned gentleman. After a short conversation, Mr. Baldus related the following.
"It was like this," he began. "I was employed as a cook in one of the hotels about two years ago. I worked from early morning until late at night, putting in from fifteen to sixteen hours daily over a red-hot range. "I think the long hours and terrible heat must have broken down my constitution. Then, in order to get relief from the extreme heat I would go into the open air to cool off. In this way I caught my first cold. This was soon followed by another, and yet another, until it seemed as if I suffered from one continual cold

It was a dull, throbbing kind of pain, and seemed to be more severe just above the eyes and at the base of my skull. There were singular singing noises in my ears and a swimming, glddy feeling in my head. If I would stoop over my head would seem to SWIM ROUND AND BOUND.

And black spots would float before my eyes. making me almost blind for an instant. "My memory was not so good as it had been. If I laid anything down one moment, I forgot where I had placed it.
"My eyes were affected. I could not see to read for any length of time. The page would blur and all the letters seem to run together. "My appetite was bad. I could est scarcely anything at all. I did not rest well at night. In the morning I would arise

"There was a sense of oppression on my shest, a dropping of mucus in my throat, a choking sensation, sharp, shooting pains in my left side and a cough which bothered me very much.

"Then I was always tired. It seemed ar though I could never get enough rest. I believe every bone in my body ached. Every morning I felt as though I had laid out in the open air all night, I was so stiff. I tried everything I could think of to get relief. I
